

JENNIE KASSANOFF

Jennie Kassanoff is the Adolph S. and Effie Ochs Professor of American Studies and History at Barnard College, Columbia University, where she is a Professor of English. She is the author of Edith Wharton and the Politics of Race (Cambridge UP, 2004) and is completing a new book entitled Voter Writes: A Literary History of the Voting Rights Act. Her essays have appeared in PMLA, American Literature, Henry James Review, and American Literary History, among other books and journals. She is the recipient of both of Barnard's top teaching prizes, and a cofounder of Barnard's Consortium for Critical Interdisciplinary Studies.

THE AUTHORS GUILD
Words, Ideas, and Thinkers